YOUR CRUISE

Embark with PONANT for a 13-day expedition cruise in the Indian Ocean. A chance to discover stunning natural environments, exceptional wildlife, and UNESCO World Heritage sites loaded with history.

From Zanzibar, a city with superb UNESCO-listed buildings, blending African, Arab, Indian and European influences over more than a millennium, you will sail to Pemba Island, its clove plantations and its fantastic scuba diving sites.

Your next ports of call will be an opportunity to discover the ruins of the 13th-century Swahili trading post of Kilwa Kisiwani, before heading to Mayotte. This small French archipelago protected by a double barrier reef is the refuge of an incredibly rich fauna: dolphins, rays, giant turtles, and the region's last dugongs can be observed here.

After calling at the Glorioso Islands in the Scattered Islands, your ship will set a course for Aldabra Atoll, a largely untouched natural sanctuary listed as World Heritage by UNESCO.

Further on, the small islands of Assumption, Astove and Alphonse will be an opportunity to snorkel and dive among brightly-coloured sea life.

Before disembarking in Victoria on the island of Mahé, a veritable picture-postcard awaits you in La Digue: palm trees, granite rocks, white sand and crystal-clear waters.
